

HANNA NOW NEEDS JUST TWO VOTES

UNITED OPPOSITION TO HIM COULD WIN.

Deadlock Is Looked For—All Sorts of Rumors in Circulation As to the Probable Successful Candidate—Some Talk of Secretary Sherman Is Heard

Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 5.—The political future of Senator Hanna is certainly in a closely poised balance. While there are now reported to be nine dissenters among the eighty Republican members—one in the senate and eight in the house—yet the really doubtful list is limited to two or three. Representatives Griffith of Union and Joyce of Guernsey, who voted with "the combine" on the organization of the house, have stated that they would vote for Senator Hanna. This gave Hanna 54 in the house and 17 in the senate, a total of 71, or two short of the necessary majority.

Congressman Grosvenor has left for Washington, and the anti-Hanna men say he has gone there to confer as to the legatee, which the opposition reports as likely to be Secretary Sherman.

It is believed that Mayor McKisson will give way to Mr. Kurtz for the short term for senator, while Gov. Bushnell has all along been regarded as the candidate for the long term. Some of the Democratic members insist that the breach is so wide and so deep now between the Republicans that John R. McLean or some other free-silver Democrat could be elected over Hanna.

Letters and telegrams have poured in on Gov. Bushnell, the dissenting Republican members and others, protesting against the action of the Republicans who were co-operating with the Democrats. In reply, those about the headquarters revive the talk of the American Protective Association, the working men and others being opposed to Senator Hanna.

The announcement by the Republicans that they would have no joint senatorial caucus previous to the balloting for senator, will compel all to continue in this guerrilla warfare for another week, but, with the result depending on the action of two or three doubtful members, neither side could show its hand without exposing the results or the deserts to terrific fire for at least a week.

The senate and the house will ballot separately next Tuesday for senator. The senate will stand 19 to 17 against Hanna by Senator Burke voting with the Democrats. The house on Monday stood 56 to 53. It is now 55 to 54 against Hanna. This would settle the contest if the "combine" in both houses can concentrate on any one candidate against Hanna, and when the two houses meet on the following day, Wednesday, Jan. 12, to canvass in joint assembly, the vote of the previous day as cast by each branch separately, there would be nothing to do except to announce the total result as 74 to 71 against Hanna. But if Senator Hanna has not a majority a week hence it is doubtful if any opponent will have it, and the general prediction is for a deadlock.

Novak Makes a Statement.

Belle Plain, Iowa, Jan. 5.—For the first time since his capture in Alaska and return to this country, his conviction and subsequent sentence to imprisonment, Frank A. Novak has spoken, in a statement he makes through his attorney, Mr. Milner of this city. Of this confession to Detective Perrin he says: "I do not wish to be understood as contradicting Mr. Perrin's statement of my confession to him. On the contrary, it is exactly in line with the information that has been furnished my attorneys. But in the new trial, which I am quite sure the Supreme court will grant me, there will be evidence brought out that will place me in an entirely different light before the public, and certainly the most convincing evidence that I do not have human blood on my hands. But this will all come out very clear at the new trial I am sure of being granted me."

VICTIMS NUMBERTWENTY-TWO

Later Particulars of the City Hall Disaster at London, Ont.

London, Ont., Jan. 5.—The death list in the calamity resulting from the collapse of the city hall floor at Monday night's meeting is now placed at twenty-two. It is found that Stewart Harris, reported dead, is alive, and that John H. Fortner, laborer, is dead. The list of wounded, some very seriously, is, however, greatly augmented.

Alderman Neil Cooper is reported very low and may not survive.

The wonder is that more were not killed outright, so murderous was the pit into which between 400 and 500 persons were precipitated. The portion of the floor which went down was over the oblong room in which the city engineer had his office. Under the flooring was a wooden beam twelve inches by twelve inches, which rested on brick walls on either side of the room. It was the collapse of this beam that caused the disaster.

City Engineer Graydon says that for a crowd such as ordinarily assembles on municipal election night the support was ample, but Monday night excitement ran high and a seething mass of men pushed in at two doors and collided in front of the platform.

Murdered in Their Own Home.

Fairbury, Neb., Jan. 5.—George Baker and his aged wife were murdered at their home near here Tuesday morning. Both were shot from the outside through the north window with a gun, and so close was the murderer to the window that the powder had burned the framework. The affair is a mystery. Baker was a prominent farmer and politician. A neighbor says that soon after the shooting he saw a tall man running from the Baker home. The tracks are being guarded by deputies and bloodhounds have been telegraphed for.

To Adjust the Coal Output.

New York, Jan. 5.—It is said in Wall street that a conference had taken place between J. Pierpont Morgan, before his recent departure to Europe, and the leading soft coal interests. Mr. Morgan is said to have declared all along that the anthracite coal interests could not be held to any agreement except on a co-operative plan, and this agreement, it is averred, is now being carried out.

Should Stick to Germany.

London, Jan. 5.—According to a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Rome, Signor Crispi said, in the course of an interview, that events in the far East have proved that Russia "only sought the French alliance to hamper France in this important matter, and that Italy would get nothing by supporting Great Britain in Chinese affairs, while she might expect much from supporting Russo-German action."

MASSIVE CRUISERS ALONG THE COAST

BRITISH WAR SHIPS BEING GATHERED TOGETHER

Activity in Dock Yards—European Nations Make Preparations For the Gravest Emergencies—Great Britain May Give China Her Much Needed Loan.

London, Jan. 5.—British war ships, one by one, are gradually rendezvousing in the Korean gulf. Orders have been issued for the detaching of vessels from the various fleets, and in a few weeks Great Britain will have a huge squadron in the Yellow sea.

Meanwhile, work is being pushed in naval preparations. There also is unusual activity in the war office, and all signs are that the government is preparing for emergencies.

The latest developments forecast a British diplomatic victory in China, but at the cost of intensifying the fierce hatred felt for her by both Russia and Germany.

Advices from Japan show that the war fever is increasing there. Should Marquis Ito succeed in organizing the jingo cabinet that he has planned the menacing conditions will become serious.

Russia and Germany are by no means idle, and the suspicious activity in French dockyards indicates that President Faure and Minister Hanotaux are not going to take chances.

There is renewal of the rumors that the Washington government has been again sounded touching the Chinese situation. Great Britain sorely needs an ally, and is said to be willing to promise settlements of the seal fishing and Alaskan boundary questions on American terms if President McKinley will only declare that Russo-German occupation of Chinese ports is a menace to American commerce.

MOUNT ON AGRICULTURE.

Address Before the Meeting of the Board at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 5.—The state board of agriculture, which met in annual session Tuesday, has before it a proposition that the property it owns be turned over to the state and that it become a state organization. Several years ago the Supreme Court held that the body was a private corporation. Former Gov. Matthews, who is now a member of the board, is behind the movement. Gov. Mount delivered an address before the board. He said: "The superintendent of public instruction informs me that the total amount annually expended in the cause of education in Indiana would not fall short of $10,000,000. I am in favor of the broadest kind of education, but I want farmers educated in the science of agriculture as well. There is practically no instruction as to how crops grow, the elements of plant food they require, how to conserve and how to restore those elements to the soil. There is little or nothing in the textbooks of our schools to interest children in nature study."

The financial statement made by Secretary Kennedy shows that the receipts last year amounted to a total of $57,207.80. Of this sum $10,000 was by state appropriation and $29,977.20 came from the sale of tickets to the fair. The disbursements amounted to $55,550.10. Salaries amounted to $3,039.19 and premiums at the fair were $19,296.93. The balance in the treasury is given at $1,651.70.

Influence of the Pope.

Rome, Jan. 5.—It appears that Mgr. Anser, bishop of the province of Shantung, China, in his recent visit to the pope not only discussed the developments in China, but had an unofficial mission from Emperor William to enlist the aid of the pope on behalf of the naval bill, and it is affirmed that the pope, while refusing to intervene directly in German politics, promised to use his influence indirectly with the center (Catholic) party in the reichstag in support of the naval bill, having in view the interests of German Catholics in China.

The 5 per cent was increased to 10 per cent in January, 1894, and that remained until November, 1895, when it was reduced to 7 per cent, and later on to 6 per cent in January, 1896.

Bishop Nicholson Speaks Highly of Trinity's Retiring Rector

Bishop I. L. Nicholson of the Milwaukee diocese who was in the city yesterday spoke in the highest terms of the good work that has been carried on in this city at Trinity church by the Rev. W. H. Wotton some time ago expressed the wish that he might soon be transferred to a location either in California or the south where the climate was more suited to the health of his family.

BUT LITTLE TRADE IN LEAF TOBACCO

MARKET IS QUIET THESE DAYS.

Most of the Dealers Have Been Busy Closing Up the Government Books—Some Riding Has Been Done—Experiments With Cuban Seed—The Week's Shipments.

The local tobacco market exhibited little activity during the past week. Most of the dealers have been engaged in closing up the government books and preparing for the business of the new year. At Edgerton, the firm of McIntosh Bros. have received a few crops of old leaf from first hands, at prices ranging from 8 to 10¢ cents. E. C. Hopkins has sold 100 cases of his '96 packing to T. B. Earle for the account of L. Bamberger & Co., Philadelphia, and also eighty cases of short-cut to another Philadelphia firm. John Hurd, a large Fulton grower, is reported to have disposed of about 200 cases of different years' growth to an Eastern firm.

Some riding has commenced in the growing sections with a view largely to acquaint the dealers with the quality of the new tobacco and a few sales have been effected, but no general effort has as yet developed toward buying the '97 crop. The movement can hardly be expected until the eastern dealers have made up their minds to enter the market and then they may not decide to do until next summer, after the tobacco has been handled and placed in the cases by the farmers.

H. W. Child, an extensive dealer and grower, has been making some satisfactory experiments with imported Cuba seed. Two acres of his '97 crop has recently been stripped which yielded nearly 1,600 pounds to the acre of fine filler leaf. The tobacco was planted very close on heavy soil which accounts for the extraordinary yield. Growers would be able to realize more money returns from growing a filler leaf if anything like the above could be guaranteed them. The quality of Cuba tobacco grown on Wisconsin soil, while not equal to the imported Havana article, makes a very acceptable filler and commands a good price. Shipments of the week out of storage reach about 300 cases to all points. Since last report 650 cases cigar leaf were exported from New York.

THE Chicago Tribune is known to be the most prosperous the most conservative, and yet the most enterprising newspaper in that city. William Van Benthuyzen, the veteran managing editor, has held that position for years, and is known all over the United States as one of the best informed newspaper men in the country. All correspondents work under telegraphic orders sent out by Mr. Van Benthuyzen, and he always knows just what he will get from a correspondent. Mr. Van Benthuyzen will probably be utterly crushed when he hears that so eminent an authority as the local reporter for the Janesville Recorder says that The Tribune is "yellow," and that the men who make it do not know their business. It is hoped that Mr. Van Benthuyzen will not find out that he has been so denounced, as he is getting well along in years.

The trustees take pleasure in being able to announce to the board of supervisors and the taxpayers of Rock county, that the insane asylum is now, not only a self-supporting money-making institution. It will be seen by the foregoing statement that its income after liquidating all expenditures of the plant, for the support of the inmates, and the expenses including the cost of maintaining the inmates in the almshouse, is sufficient to pay the $6,000 in interest on the bonds, and then have a balance left for a sinking fund.
Should the board view the establishment as both creditable and profitable to Rock county? The testimony of the state board of control at the care takers of the insane in other states, and the fact that the inmates of this county are for the support of insane persons, lead the trustees to believe that a very unusual number sent from the state hospital to our asylum as criminals are discharged, and are so much improved that they are permitted to return to their homes on furloughs, from which they are seldom s-back.
If any of your patients go home cured, asked a member of the State Board. Trustee answering in the affirmative, the question seemed surprised and apparently incredulous.
H. M. Wetherell, specialist, sent from Philadelphia to insane hospital, after examining critically all departments of our asylum, expressed astonishment that so many had been discharged.
H. H. Hart, secretary, with three members of the Minnesota State Board of Charities and Correction, recently visited our county farm, and after examining the same, and the almshouse, emphatically declared, "The Rock county institution is considered one of the best in the state."
Of the almshouse Secretary Hart said: "We are much pleased with the several pa-houses we visited in Wisconsin. At Janesville we found what I consider an ideal poor house. The inmates are well cared for, and the matron-in-charge, here is not a person in the institution who is not a pauper. Everything was scrupulously clean about the place, and the men we saw who come and are cared for here, could be found at a first class hotel. In a word, the place was cheap, clean and comfortable."
One of the Minnesota delegates on our assembly room said: "We find no superior, no lobby like this in other county asylums."
The number of patients discharged from Rock county asylum regarded as cured, and reported to the board of supervisors in report is scarcely less than a dozen.
Why is it that so many cases sent to our hospital as incurable are permitted to be discharged by their relatives so greatly improved, not wholly cured? May it not, in a measure, attributed to the observance of the Sabbath a day of rest—to the voluntary gauching of patients for the occasion, the free charge of appropriate services, in which all, even the poorest cases with very few exceptions, are warmly interested, and to the distribution of religious tracts, magazines, and newspapers, and the donations of kind friends of the institution.
The items showing the movements of paupers in the almshouse of the asylum and almshouse the number of weeks' board furnished, the clip-l products of the farm, the weight of man and sters slaughtered, expenditures, etc., can be learned from Supt. Aller's report to the board of supervisors, and the salary of the officers of the institution, the names of those who died during the year, with causes of their deaths and their ages will be found in Dr. J. F. Peber's statement, also the expenditures.
The trustees wish again to publicly express their thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Aller, to J. Hughes, matron of the almshouse, and to all who have aided in the support of the asylum and its services in promoting the welfare of the unfortunate under their care.
S. T. MERRILL, S. S. DAVIS, K. KILLIAN, Trustees.

The cause of super-abundant medical surgical attention has occurred. Rock county can justify its expenditure of money in hospital and almshouses, as the efficient way in which the same is managed. The sanitary condition remain all that could be asked, and no contagious or infectious diseases have developed in either institution. I desire to thank the board of trustees for their kind interest and all who have so cheerfully helped me in my work.
[Signed] J. F. PEMBER, M. D.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1000—Edward the Confessor, Saxon king of England, died; born 1004.

1589—Catherine de' Medici, cruel and intriguing queen of France, died.

1770—Zebulon Montgomery Pike, soldier and explorer of the Rocky mountains, born in Lamberton, N. J.; CATHERINE DE' MEDICI, killed 1589. General Pike fell in the attack on York (now Toronto). His explorations were conducted while he was a lieutenant in the regular army. In 1805-6, after months of exploration and constant exposure to hardship, he succeeded in tracing the Mississippi river to its source. While exploring the new Louisiana purchase in 1806-7 he discovered Pike's peak, in the Rocky mountains.

1891—Emma Abbott, prima donna, died in Salt Lake City.

1896—David H. Craig, first general manager of the Associated Press, died at Asbury Park.

1897—General Francis A. Walker, veteran of the Federal army and a well known economist, died in Boston; born 1841.

INVESTIGATION AT WAUPUN.

The Waupun investigation is turning out about the same as those that preceded it—vindicating the superintendent and the state board of control, and proving the petty spite that inspired the charges. The investigation opened yesterday and of the twenty-one charges five of the most serious were at once wholly withdrawn by Attorney Ellsworth, they being unsupported by evidence. Two others went over until tomorrow at his request. Modifications of some of the remaining charges and the striking out of the strongest portions of them which may be done, will leave the investigation entirely on the question of discipline.

Mrs. Eva Waterman, the complainant, while on the stand this morning, in reply to queries as to the names of the convicts where not given specifically, who had suffered the effects of the discipline set forth in several of the charges, and that she could not give the names, and in reply to the question as to her informants in the charges set forth finally said that she had obtained the information from Attorney Ellsworth with the possible exception of one or two cases of which she had heard her husband speak.

At the afternoon session the examination of convict witnesses, under the general charges of cruel and inhuman treatment was taken up. Seven convicts were examined among them William King, who said that he had been strung up by the wrists during a greater portion of his seventeen days' incarceration in a cell. He admitted that his feet were squarely on the floor and that his wrists were tied only at a height which brought his hands about opposite his forehead.

On cross examination he said that he stood the punishment because he did not want to work beside a colored man. He knew he could be released any moment when he would go to work.

Walter Meyer, whose record showed that he has been sent in from the shops twenty-three times by nine different officers for various misdemeanors, admitted that he had been impudent and a bad boy that he had refused to take medicine prescribed by the doctor. His testimony failed to develop anything sensational.

William Tarbox, serving a second sentence, and a short time ago bound over for assaulting an officer, was confined in the dark cell for insubordination. He said his lungs were weak. The examination brought out the fact that he yelled for three hours after being placed in the cell, keeping the inmates in the entire cell-room awake. He said he was then gagged, but that he worked the gag loose and yelled and whistled. He said he was mad and would have killed a man if he had had a gun. He said he was not a crook, had tried to be but failed. He told how he had sworn at a guard and refused to work and of his striking the guard in the face. He said he was a member of the prison Christian Endeavor society and was trying to be a good christian. He said he expected the punishment he got and found no fault. It was pure cussedness, he said, that made him yell in the dark cell.

The next witness said he was confined in the dark cell from Dec. 10 to Dec. 13. Several days afterwards he found that his feet had been frozen during his incarceration. Local doctors, who were called to examine him, said they could find no trace of this but that there were symptoms of chilblains. He admitted having poured coal oil upon his feet. It developed that during the time he was in the dark cell the weather was mild and open, hardly freezing over night out of doors.

Investigations similar to the Waupun affair seem to be the fashion at present, and there is no reason why they should be smothered. The affairs of state institutions were never in better shape to lay before the eyes of critics. The investigations held thus far have given very little comfort to discontent and assistant democrats, but they have given the people of the state the best possible proof that their institutions are being managed economically, effectively and with careful regard to business principles.

THE CLOUD IN THE EAST

The eastern question has taken a form that brings Russia very prominently to the front. Russia's rapidly increasing strength is a subject that concerns all civilization. The Trans-Siberian railroad makes Russia the only nation of Europe that can send troops overland to its territory on the eastern coast of Asia and the resources is likely to count for much in the partition of China. A few years ago the railroad was only a project on paper. Now it is nearing completion. Next spring work will be begun in Southwestern Russia on 125 miles of ship canal, 283 feet deep, to give a continuous waterway, by rivers and canal, connecting the Baltic and the Black seas. When it is finished a Russian fleet will be able to steam from St. Petersburg to Constantinople without facing any except Turkish fortifications. The whole length of the ship canal and of canalized rivers will be 1,080 miles, and the cost will be $100,000,000. But there can be no reasonable doubt of its speedy completion. A tremendous achievement of Russia is to place the empire on the gold standard. What international development the next century may bring are beyond conjecture, but as matters stand Russia's future is one of the world's greatest problems.

Mr. Bryan suffers for standards of comparison now that Russia, Japan and several other countries have deserted the silver standard. He now swings his arms and urges his countrymen to mount upward to the financial condition of Mexico.

The United States is pursuing its own interests in its own way and interfering with nobody. Moreover it will not abide much interference in its own affairs as long as President McKinley is in the chair.

When Mr. Kurtz gets all through beating Mark Hanna in Ohio he will know how Mr. Leiter felt after crushing P. D. Armour.

The Jamesville street railway shut down in time to insure against having any of the new counterfeit $100 bills passed on it.

Ashtabula has frowned on the slot machines. As gambling devices they were far too slow.

In her effort to outdo the world in 1900 Paris will not fail to do her visitors.

SOMNAMBULIST'S LONG TRAMP

Chella Connor of Felton, Del., Walks Seventeen Miles in Her Sleep.

Probably the longest night walk ever taken by a somnambulist was that of Miss Chella Connor, the 19-year-old daughter of A. B. Connor, the station agent at Felton, Del. A few nights ago Miss Connor retired, but fell asleep before she disrobed. She had been in the room but a short time when she walked out of the house and up the railroad track. None of the family saw her leave the house and did not discover that she had gone until some time after. They were greatly alarmed and at once made a search for her. A young man who knew the girl well said that he saw her walking up the railroad track, but said nothing to her. The friends of the family at once started in pursuit of her, but were compelled to return without her. Nearly all night they scoured the country with bicycles and carriages, but none of them thought to keep directly on the railroad track. Miss Connor walked straight up the track and when she awoke in the early morning she found that she was near Cheswold, which is seventeen miles from where she started. She at once took a train and went home. Miss Connor has been afflicted with somnambulism for some years and has often been placed in extreme danger on account of it, but never before has she walked out of the house in her sleep.

Wheat Burned in California.

Stockton, Cal., Jan. 5.—At 12:10 o'clock Tuesday fire was discovered in warehouse No. 5 of the Farmers' Union and Milling company and before the department could respond, the flames were beyond control. The fire quickly spread to warehouse No. 6 and it was soon seen that neither warehouse could be saved. The lowest estimate of the amount of wheat destroyed is 10,000 tons, and many put it higher. The loss is placed at more than $500,000.

Suicide of a Rich Miner.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 5.—George J. Smith, the discoverer of the famous Treadwell mine in Alaska, was found, shot through the heart, early Tuesday morning in his workshop. He had committed suicide. Smith was rich and apparently happy in his domestic relations.

Another Newspaper Horror.

Mrs. Jones (indignantly)—These newspapers are just simply not fit to read.

Mr. Jones—Another crime, I suppose?

Mrs. Jones—Yes;—here is a description of the gown I wore at the ball last night, that must have been written by some ignorant, amateur male reporter that didn't know a dress from a dromedary!—Puck.

In Confidence.

Mrs. Farquhar—Do you really think your husband is the handsomest man in the world?

Mrs. Adsworth—Certainly. I don't see how any married woman can be happy unless she has that belief.

Mrs. Farquhar—And do you ever tell him so?

Mrs. Adsworth—Oh, Julia! Have I done anything to indicate that I am losing my mind?—Cleveland Leader.

An Assurance.

"I hope," said the girl's father, "that you expect to surround my daughter with all the luxuries to which she has been accustomed."

"Oh, yes," was the prompt and cheerful response. "We have talked it over and we agreed that we would just as leave come right here to live as not." —Washington Star.

How It Was Settled.

"What was all the noise I heard down stairs, this morning?" asked the boarder.

"Oh, wife and I had a discussion about the quality of the coffee," said the landlady's husband.

"Well, how did you settle it?"

"Wife, put an egg in it."—Yonkers Statesman.

Strange.

Bloombumper—You wouldn't call the English a dead language, would you? Spatts—Of course not.

"That is strange."

Constant Roaring, Singing, Buzzing in the Ear so Distressing Cured by the THERMO-OZONE GENERATOR.

At first I believed, and still believe, that it is a crime not to make known to the world a discovery which will cure these conditions heretofore held to be incurable. Aurists have exhausted their skill in treating the drum and Eustachian tube for deafness with supreme failure. NO PLAN, NO METHOD, has ever before been adopted capable of carrying treatment into the seat of the disease which is located on mucous membrane that covers the bones of the middle ear and other organs of hearing. OVER EIGHT HUNDRED TREATMENTS given since Sept. 1st without one failure to benefit or cure. We publish no names but you can copy them from our case book and interview the parties. WE ARE NOT AND WILL NOT BE RESPONSIBLE for parties who do not follow instructions, but guarantee every case that does. We fit you out with instruments and medicine for home treatment at small cost. Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do, and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.

WED IN MILWAUKEE
SOME WEEKS AGOJOHN H. MYERS ANNOUNCES
HIS MARRIAGE.

Leads Miss Laura Foote to Hymen's Altar and the Couple Are Now Off On a Trip—Burpee-Rowe's Nuptials Celebrated This Afternoon.

John H. Myers has made the announcement to some of his friends and acquaintances that he is now a married man. The ceremony that joined him to the holy bonds of matrimony to Miss Laura Foote, he says, took place several weeks ago at Milwaukee. The bride is a former resident of Green Bay, while the groom is one of Janesville's well known business men.

Mr. and Mrs. Myers have been stopping of late at the European hotel and left recently for the north on a wedding trip.

A host of friends in this city will extend hearty congratulations to them.

Burpee-Rowe.

At the suburban home of Register of Deeds and Mrs. O. D. Rowe was solemnized this afternoon at 1 o'clock the wedding of their eldest daughter, Miss Jennie L. Rowe to Frederick C. Burpee. Rev. A. C. Kempton of the Baptist church officiated, and while mandolins tinkled and a harp thrummed, the bride and groom, unattended, took their places in the parlor, which was beautifully decorated with smilax, putted plants, roses and cut flowers. The magic words that made them man and wife were spoken, the serving of wedding repast followed and this evening the happy couple will leave on a wedding trip. On their return they will make their home at the Pleasant street residence of the groom's mother, Mrs. Eliza Burpee.

The bride, who has grown to womanhood in this city, is a young lady whose kindly character has endeared her to all. She is a graduate of the Janesville High school, finishing her course with high honors.

The groom is a well known Janesville attorney, also holding the position of member of the school board, and stands at the head among the younger lawyers of the state. Progressive and business like in his ways, he has won for himself a place that only men of talent can attain.

Among the out-of-town guests who were in attendance at the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Washburn, Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Washburn, Mrs. F. P. Buzzell, and Mrs. Hulda Rowe, of Palmyra; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bentley and William P. Bentley of Edgerton; Mrs. Arthur T. Howe of Chicago; and Miss Emilie Bingham of Keshonong.

Page-Patriquin.

Orfordville, Jan 4—Married, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Patriquin, in the town of Spring Valley, on Friday evening, December 31, Mary F. Patriquin and J. C. Page. The ceremony was performed in the presence of about forty relatives and neighbors, by Rev. Thomas Potter of Allen Grove. At the close of the ceremony a bountiful supper was served, and the evening was spent in social intercourse. The young people were the recipients of many useful and valuable presents, among them being a handsome gold watch, a present from the groom to the bride. The best wishes of the community go with the young people.

Young-Griffin.

Rev. Robert C. Denison said the words yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock that united as man and wife Governor M. Young and Miss Hettie B. Griffin. Both bride and groom reside in White-water.

START UP STEMMING PLANT

Mr. Heddles said today that his main office would remain at his up town warehouse and that all business would be transacted there. A telephone line will connect both warehouses. Miss Grace Kirk will act as Mr. Heddles' bookkeeper.

Mr. Allison stated last evening that he would leave his family in Janesville till he finds out just what he intends to do after reaching Alaska. He will sail via Seattle and expects that others will accompany him from that city.

No stock that compares with this jacket and cape stock of ours, in the city. And we sold regularly lower than any of them, and even those prices we have cut in half, so that unheard of bargains are yours. Bort, Bailey & Co.

ON page 8 this evening you will find some interesting clock prices made by F. C. Cook & Co. The 30-day clock sale is still on, and people who have any thought of buying jewelry, clocks, watches, etc., should not wait long to take advantage of it.

PHYSICIANS say that there is no case on record where a person who was "battling with physical weakness" ever staggered when they walked, or leaned on anything for support. A woman who becomes "completely exhausted" in walking thirty feet is always able to walk a chalk line, and balance a feather on her chin. This is a scientific fact.

THE Holmes store on the bridge was crowded all day with purchasers. The fact that George D. Simpson had purchased the stock at 50 cents on the dollar became known with great rapidity and merchant-tailoring, suits, pants, overcoats and furnishings went like hot cakes. There are plenty of goods left and the sale will continue until the entire stock is closed out.

GAZETTE reporters sat in the gallery at the church Sunday evening and saw just what happened when Miss Willard was taken ill. Gazette reporters were also admitted to the room where Miss Willard lay sick. Therefore Gazette reporters know more about what happened than the other reporters who did not know that anything unusual had happened until the next day.

W. F. HAYES, the eye expert, leaves for Chicago tomorrow morning, and will be in the city the balance of the week attending to special optical work. Mr. Hayes is continually looking after the new methods used in eye work, and every one of value is adopted by him in the work. Retinoscopy, one of the latest methods taken up by Mr. Hayes, is probably one of the best eye tests known. He will be back, ready for business, on Monday next.

THE CARGILLS SHIP
THE GRAIN AWAYELEVATOR EMPTY AT NEW YEAR'S OPENING

Twenty-One Thousand Bushels of Barley and Oats Were Bought Since the Elevator Opened—Firm Will Buy Corn In the Near Future

Twenty-one thousand bushels of grain have been shipped from this city by the W. W. Cargill Grain company and considering the fact that buying was not commenced until a few weeks ago, the Cargills consider this a record to be proud of. The shipments were made to enable the Cargill elevator to start in the new year with clean bins. In order that this could be accomplished local Agent T. A. McGuire received orders to clean the bins of every bushel of grain and have the same aboard the cars and ready for shipment by the first of the year. Of this twenty-one thousand bushel shipment, five thousand five hundred bushels were barley, while the balance was oats. No corn has as yet been purchased for the reason that the necessary machinery has as yet not been placed in position.

Agent McGuire says that he has been offered hundreds of bushels of corn and that buying will commence just as soon as the machinery is in shape to operate.

SECURES A BIG CONTRACT

Beloit Iron Works Is Constructing a Mammoth Paper Machine

A monster paper machine weighing 250 tons and capable of turning out a finished sheet of book or writing paper 113 inches wide is under process of construction in Beloit. It is intended for the Plover Paper company of Stevens Point, Wis., and is being manufactured by the Beloit Iron Works.

The Beloit concern has already made one machine for the Stevens Point people and so complete was the satisfaction given that when bids were asked for the giant machine the Beloit institution secured the contract, although two eastern concerns were competitors and one slightly underbid Mr. Aldrich.

The machine now being built is what is called a Fourdrinier and will be used in making book and writing paper. It will turn out a sheet 114 inches wide that will trim down to 110 inches. This machine is fourteen inches larger than the one shipped to Japan last summer. The contract calls for the completion of the machine within three months.

THEY MAY REDISTRICT BELOIT

Common Council Discussing Changes in the Wards.

The Beloit common council is discussing redistricting the city. The judiciary committee at its meetings, has discussed the advisability of taking a part of the Second ward, which is growing fast, and adding it to the First, which is cramped and ill-shaped. It is also believed to be a good policy to add a part of the Fourth ward to the new ward to be created, which will keep down the number of polling precincts and thus save municipal expense.

Another plan proposed is to reduce the number of aldermen in each ward from three to two, after the Fifth ward is created. Janesville has but five wards and ten aldermen. An act of the legislature may be required to bring about these changes in Beloit.

SAINTS.

O saints, dear saints, so present, yet so far,
I cannot touch you with my hand or trace
The aspect of your strength, your faith, your grace!

Between us lie the years, the gulf, the bar;
But, as one tracks the starlight to the star
And finds no dark nor flame forsaken space
To fret the beauty of its burning face
Because the splendor swallows blot and scar,
So time has framed you with an aureole
More circle rounded than your age foreknew.
No frailty now can quench that fire of soul!
The things ye willed and did not, those ye do.

The gifts he strove for, in my sight are true.
Your perfect parts have made perfection whole.

AN ISLAND ROMANCE.

An old traveler who, as special correspondent, story writer and theatrical manager, has visited nearly every part of the globe, in the person of J. Charles Davis, is now here for the purpose of paving the way for J. Cheever Goodwin and Woolson Morse's musical comedy, "Lost, Strayed or Stolen." He thus describes one of the odd corners of the world:

Probably the quaintest and most interesting island that dots the waters of the world is what was known until after the last English victory over the French as the Isle de France. It is Mauritius, French in everything but government, which is English.

Mauritius is the home of romance and a veritable gold mine for the story teller and novel writer. It is the scene of good old Father St. Pierre's "Paul and Virginia," and the visitor to Port Louis, the metropolis and principal seaport, who would attempt to leave the island without driving out and visiting the grave of Paul and Virginia would be considered an unromantic, unsympathetic heathen. It is situated in a peaceful valley and reached by a short drive from the capital.

This little island is one of the most cosmopolitan places in existence. French, English, German, Spanish, Italian and a few American merchants are engaged in business in the bazaars along the water front, while Africans, Malays, Persians, the natives of Madagascar, coolies from the Malabar coast, Moors from the strait of Gibraltar and the natives of upper India elbow each other in the market places, and one hears the language of every land in a half dozen blocks.

The superstitions of every country and the weird tales growing out of the traditions of all lands have been brought to the island, taken root and grown to be observed by the lower classes of all nations, and consequently the island has become the favorite hunting ground of the story teller in search of genuine novelty, particularly in the weird and mysterious vein. Besant and Rice obtained the story of "My Little Girl" from Mauritius. It was here that the story of the "Coco de Mere" had its birth. Here the legend of the enchanted caverns yawning for the reception of shipwrecked sailors, with their two gates, one leading to the celestial empire and the other to hades, is repeated and believed, and those who cross the island to its northern and most inhabited shore can see two great openings, the bottom of each being below the low water mark and the top being high enough to admit the rigging of a sailing vessel, awaiting for him to choose which way he will go, but with no guidepost or trademark to assist him in his choice.

Although the government of Mauritius is English the official language is French, and in order to travel without inconvenience one must speak it well, but in order to get at the weird and mysterious it is necessary to have an interpreter who is an East Indian and who appreciates the value of getting at the bottom of a subject after having once entered into it. While returning from a visit to the famous gardens of Curpepe I halted at a little refreshment house, and in conversation with the proprietor discovered that he was not only an old resident, but a man well versed in the folklore of the island and one who would talk if allowed to.

It is needless to say that I allowed him to, and while we were enjoying some really delicious Manilla cheroots under the shade of a great banyan tree, just back of his house, he told me the following story:

Shortly after it became impossible for many members of the old French nobility to live comfortably in la belle France a country nobleman, accompanied only by the young and beautiful daughter, left the mother country behind and arrived at Port Louis with little excepting the family jewels, plate and honor. The father and daughter brought with them an old priest who had been Ninette's instructor and almost constant companion since the child's dying mother confided her while but a toddling infant to the good old man's care. With a few house servants the count set up a modest establishment on the northern part of the island, purchased a small plantation and began the cultivation of sugar cane, which is the principal industry of the country.

Under the fostering care of her father, the priest and the old family servants Ninette grew to womanhood without having often crossed the boundary lines of the little plantation on which they lived. Her favorite recreation was reading, and she indulged this education of pastime in a bowerlike nook on the very face of the cliff overhanging the ocean. Here she would spend the delightfully balmy afternoons watching the native craft either going to sea, sailing away into the blue distance until their lateen sails looked like the wings of a flock of sea gulls or coming up out of the blue waters of the Indian ocean and growing larger and more distinct until the songs of the native sailors could be distinctly heard in her cliff top nook.

She reached the age of 19 when one morning she encountered a young stranger in the person of the son of a wealthy planter who lived many miles over the other side of the mountain and who, while pursuing his favorite pastime of shooting red winged partridges, had scaled the cliff and, following his dogs, almost stumbled into Ninette's retreat. The young man, after apologizing, withdrew hastily, but his dogs, enjoying the caresses of the timid but delighted girl, refused to answer his call, and he was obliged to return to induce them to follow him.

From this incident there grew an acquaintance as carefully conducted as the strictest rules of the old French family conduct would prescribe. And one morning the count was somewhat surprised to receive a visit from the young man's father and mother, who had driven from the extreme end of the island for the purpose of introducing themselves and requesting permission for their son to pay his addresses to Ninette. The motherless child was introduced to the woman who desired to be her mother-at-law and her husband. Family history and family matters were discussed at length, and the planter and his wife did not depart until the desired consent had been obtained. After this the young couple were betrothed, the engagement duly announced, and at the expiration of nearly a year the date of the marriage set and made public, when one day Ninette, while reading in her favorite nook, was overtaken by one of those fierce storms for which the island is famous, and in attempting to regain the top of the hill slipped and fell down through the tangled underbrush, cut and scarred by jagged rocks, to the sands below. Here she was found by friends, who were alarmed at the storm and her absence and started out to search for her.

She was carried home almost lifeless, and for several days hovered between life and death, until the vigor of youth enabled her to recover sufficiently to understand the terrible accident that had befallen her. Her once beautiful features were so cut and scarred that after one horrified look into a hand mirror the poor girl turned away, sent for her father and announced her intention of entering a convent as soon as she was well enough to do so.

The almost distracted lover had ridden over from his mountain home day after day to inquire after her condition. His parents had made repeated calls, and kind hearted strangers hitherto excluded from the count's domain by the cold, exclusive disposition of its owner now came and offered sympathy and assistance daily. As soon as the attending physician decided that Ninette had sufficiently recovered to be able to bear an interview with her lover without serious results the almost frantic young man presented himself, only to be tearfully informed by the old count that his daughter desired him to convey her undying love with every assurance that it would remain unchanged until death, but that as the fearful accident that she had met with had disfigured her so that she was confident she could not survive Henri's expression of horror when he looked upon her poor mutilated features she would beg him to remember her as he saw her last, and that she would ever cherish his memory in the convent retreat that she desired to be conveyed to as soon as her health would permit.

Sadly and silently the young man took his departure, to return two days later, when he came instead of on horseback, as was his wont, in the clumsy old family carriage, from which he was assisted to alight by a favorite servant, when he said to the astonished count: "Take me to your daughter. Tell her that the changes in her features I can never know. She will always be as sweet and beautiful to me as when I saw her last. I shall never see her again, but cannot live without her society. Take me to her. She will see no looks of horror, for I am blind."

Henri, after leaving the count's door, had ridden to his own home, taken a last look at the scene that he had loved since boyhood, and then summoned a Hindoo fakir, and after a long consultation submitted to a painful operation that deprived him of his sight forever. The devotion that could not exist outside the atmosphere of mystery and superstition that hangs heavily over the little island was rewarded, and the descendants of Henri and Ninette now live in the beautiful little valley back of the capital and tell of the veiled woman who conducted the blind planter over his estate, and who was his guide and companion until both were laid to rest near the scene of their first meeting, where a marble tablet set in the side of the cliff marks the spot and makes it almost sacred to the residents of the island.

I returned to the city, and it was several days before I was able to completely shake off the indescribable impression caused by what the old innkeeper stoutly asserted was a true story of the love of Henri and Ninette.—San Francisco Chronicle.

His Own Idea.

It is said that General Crittenden used to tell with great glee a story of the reply once made to him by his son, then a little boy of 8 or 9 years.

A day or two after the battle of Chickamauga the little fellow went into camp. The general rode during the battle a horse which went by the name of John Jay, a great favorite with his small son. The child showed great delight at seeing his father again, but at last, in the midst of a vigorous hug, he asked suddenly:

"Papa, where is John Jay?"

"Oh," said his father gravely, "your horse behaved very badly during the fight. He insisted, like a coward, on taking me to the rear."

The boy looked at him searchingly for an instant. Then his eyes gleamed, and he held up a remonstrant little finger, pointing it at his parent.

"Papa," said he severely, "I know John Jay would never have done that of his own will. It must have been your work."

"There seemed to be nothing for me to say," the general usually remarked in conclusion, "and consequently I forbore to argue the matter."—Youth's Companion.

Aprons.

Women have taken to the apron again. This is well, because nothing makes a woman look more at home in her own apartments than a dainty little apron. Our grandmothers would as soon have thought of leaving off their caps or dainty collars and cuffs as their black silk or alpaca aprons in the house. The modern apron is not so somber an affair as it was in those days. The more useful and less expensive ones are made of fine lawn and trimmed with a little embroidery or lace of dainty pattern. Others are made of bands of white or colored satin ribbons put together with lace insertion, straight up and down, crossways, or diagonally. A full frill of lace all the way round, bows on the pockets and ribbon strings give the finishing touch.

"It is perfectly astonishing," said a beautifully gowned woman at the apron counter in a big store, "how these little aprons save one's skirts, and women generally are wearing them now. No matter how many servants a woman keeps, she always has certain precious possessions that she likes to dust or care for in some way herself, and that's where these little lawn aprons come in. Then I find that the lace and ribbon aprons are a great comfort when I'm doing fancy work, making afternoon tea or cooking something in the chafing dish for my spoiled boys when they come in late at night."—Exchange.

Shoes For Social Evenings.

Young women who contemplate participating in the pleasures of society this winter will do well to give especial study to their footwear. Nothing is more admired than a shapely foot incased in a stylish shoe. Where the material renders it possible it is a good plan to have the evening slipper made to match the color of one's gown. When this cannot be done, have your gloves and shoes to match, of kid. The evening shoe is cut very low down over the instep, not altogether for comfort, but partly to display the embroidery supplied to this part of the stocking. Slippers cut extremely low have a single strap across to prevent spreading across the shoe. The slippers have rounded toe, but the design of the bead embroidery is in the old razor pointed style once seen in the shoe itself. Self colored embroidery has been abandoned for the contrasting tints. Even black silk stockings have lost their somberness with touches of vivid red, emerald green, pink or yellow embroidery. White embroidery is used on black stockings by those who do not care for brighter colors.—New York Journal.

Fancy Waists.

Regardless of the disfavor with which fancy waists have been regarded by leading foreign and domestic dressmakers and tailors, it comes from the highest authorities that they will increase rather than diminish in popularity during the coming spring and summer season, for the reason that the Russian blouse effects are found to lend themselves more appropriately and gracefully even to light wools and fancy goods, in silks, satin and silk and wool mixtures, to every kind of dainty diaphanous summer textiles, than to the weighty cloths and furs of the present season. The separate waist has never been favored ed by dressmakers, owing largely to the fact that while a dressy and often elaborate effect was produced at small cost to the wearers it resulted in a loss of business to them. During two seasons past French and American designers have vainly endeavored to popularize other modes of dress which would oust a style so injurious to the dressmaking business, but opposition has seemed to increase the vogue of the separate waist in all its wonderfully varied and fascinating guises.—New York Post.

The Birth of the "Greater" New York.

With the dawn of the new year the "Greater" New York is ushered into the world a full grown giant. The problem of municipal government in this country is to be put to the supreme test of the grandest scale. In its limits is contained a population equal to that of fourteen of our sovereign States at the last census, and as large as that of the original thirteen States when the union was organized. Provisions for the life and health of this vast multitude of all nations and climes is an unsolved enigma, but, peering into the experience of half a century's success, thousands of sufferers in New York and elsewhere can be wrested from the grasp of that agonizing complaint, rheumatism, by the timely and systematic use of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which is, moreover, a preventive of malaria and kidney trouble, and a sovereign curative of liver complaint, constipation, dyspepsia, debility, sick headache and nervousness. It is an admirable appetizer and promoter of sleep, hastens convalescence, and counts acts the millions of age.

A Vanishing Type.

Only lately have Philadelphians begun to realize and reflect upon the disappearance of the Quakers as we knew them; only lately has it been brought home to us that a gradual obliteration of the old uncompromising orthodoxy has set in which means the ultimate absorption of the sect. Even now, rare as is the old garb on the streets where it was such a common sight not so many years ago, the assertion that the society is diminishing would meet with doubt and hesitation. We are so familiar with the Quaker, he is so necessary and potent a type in Philadelphia, that we would not accept the warrant even of statistics, yet, now that the visible limit has been reached, what can we do but awake to the change? We see few broad brimmed hats and drab bonnets where we once saw many. Of those who wear them, the most are old and trembling.

If there are young Quakers, how are we to recognize them? Not by their dress, at any rate, except in so far as plainness of cut and sobriety of color still rule the taste of Friends, whether wealthy or in moderate circumstances. The distinctive costume is being laid aside, with many of the distinctive customs. And why? Because the society is losing its control over its younger members? Because its rigid rules no longer suffice to hold in check the human spirit, with its unquenchable love of freedom? This is the common explanation, and the one desired by those who love romance.—Thomas Wharton in Lippincott's.

Buddhist Nuns From England.

A young English lady who has recently arrived in Bengal has decided to become a Yogi or Hindoo nun. She has already donned the other robes and has chalked out a programme of work to be carried on in India, the main object of which is the spiritual regeneration of Hindoism, which is much below par at present. She will establish a "convent" at Calcutta. The lady who has already been converted to Vedantism is a graduate of Cambridge, and while in London was one of the leaders of the woman suffrage movement.—Bombay Advocate of India.

Women are not yet admitted to the examinations at the Berlin university, nor is there a general permission for women students to attend lectures. Every professor has, however, the right to admit or to exclude women from his audiences, and the number of women studying in Berlin increases every year. It has now reached the highest figure yet attained—132.

Miss Annie Wallace is president of the State Library association of Georgia, an organization in which all the women of the state take the greatest interest, for, as Mrs. C. Read of Atlanta says, "the library can live without the patronage of women's clubs, but women's clubs would only partially exist without a public library."

To Cure Nervous Dyspepsia.

To Gain Flesh, to Sleep Well, to Know What Appetite and Good Digestion Mean, Make a Test of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Interesting Experience of an Indianapolis Gentleman.

No trouble is more common or more misunderstood than nervous dyspepsia. People having it think that their nerves are to blame and are surprised that they are not cured by nerve medicine and spring remedies; the real seat of the mischief is lost sight of; the stomach is the organ to be looked after.

Nervous dyspepsia often do not have any pain whatever in the stomach, nor perhaps any of the usual symptoms of stomach weakness. Nervous dyspepsia shows itself not in the stomach so much as in nearly every other organ; in some cases the heart palpitates and is irregular; in others the kidneys are affected; in others the bowels are constipated, with headaches; still others are troubled with loss of flesh and appetite, with accumulation of gas, sour risings and heartburn.

Mr. A. W. Sharper of No. 61 Prospect St., Indianapolis, Ind., writes as follows: "I have been a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia for the last four years; have used various patent medicines and other remedies without any favorable result. They sometimes gave temporary relief until the effects of the medicine wore off. I attributed this to my sedentary habits, being a book-keeper with little physical exercise, but I began to state that the tablets have cured me all these obstacles, for I have gained in flesh, sleep better, and am better in every way. The above is written not for notoriety, but is based on actual fact."

Respectfully yours,

A. W. SHARPER.

The Bacon Folly.

It was inevitable that the Bacon folly should proceed to commit suicide by piling up extravagances. By some methods one can prove anything, and accordingly we find writers busy in tracing Bacon's hand in the writings of Greene, Marlowe, Shirley, Marston, Massinger, Middleton and Webster. They are sure that he was the author of Montaigne's essays, which were afterward translated into what we have always supposed to be the French original. Mr. Donnelly believes that Bacon also wrote Burton's "Anatomy of Melancholy." Next comes Dr. Orville Owen with a new cipher which proves that Bacon was the son of Queen Elizabeth by Robert Dudley, and that he was the author of the "Faerie Queene" and other poems attributed to Edmund Spenser.

Finally we have Mr. J. E. Roe, who does not mean to be outdone. He asks us what we are to think of the notion that an ignorant tinker like John Bunyan could have written the most perfect allegory in any language. Perish the thought! Nobody but Bacon could have done it. Of course Bacon had been more than 50 years in his grave when "Pilgrim's Progress" was published as Bunyan's, but your true Baconizer is never stopped by trifles. Mr. Roe assures us that Bacon wrote that heavenly book, as well as "Robinson Crusoe" and the "Tale of a Tub," which surely begins to make him seem ubiquitous and everlasting. If things go on at this rate, we shall presently have a religious sect holding as its first article of faith that Francis Bacon created the heavens and the earth in six days and rested on the seventh day.—John Fiske in Atlantic.

Steel Plates For Boilers.

The progress made in engineering is notably exhibited in the fact that of late years iron plates for the construction of boilers have been almost entirely superseded by homogeneous steel plates, these having a greater tensile strength than iron plates and a greater elasticity and ductility. The standard tests now require a tensile strength of from 55,000 to 60,000 pounds per square inch—that is, the quality of the steel plate is required to be such that a bar one inch square would necessitate a force of 60,000 pounds to pull it asunder, and in such process the ductility of the steel would cause it to stretch somewhat, so that at the point of fracture there would be a marked reduction of area in the bar, the amount of this reduction deciding in a great measure the quality of the steel as adapted to boiler construction. In making specifications for boilers, therefore, especially for high pressures, it has come to be a condition that the steel plates shall be of the above named tensile strength per square inch, and that the reduction of area at the point of fracture under a test like the above shall be not less than 56 per cent—that is, the metal stretches under the test or strain so that, on breaking, it was less than one-half the original area of the bar. Such tests determine the quality and ability of the steel plates when made up into a boiler to adjust themselves to the expansion and contraction of the metal caused by the varying temperatures to which the boiler is subjected when it is set up and put to use.

A Dashed Hope.

Hicks—I wonder what the trouble is between Jaxon and his wife. They were talking quite earnestly in front of their house last evening, and I heard her say her mind was made up.

Wicks—I'm surprised at that. I knew she was an awfully artificial person; but I did suppose her mind was natural.—Boston Transcript.

A Business Woman.

He—I hear that you and Count Mulrooni have been in each other's company a great deal lately. Is it so?

She—Yes.

He—Then I trust you will release me from my engagement.

She—Not until I have given the count one more chance to propose.—Up-to-Date.
